

CIRCULATION TOOLS – a Swire Oilfield Services Company

Worldwide Solutions ... Worldwide Results

May 26, 2008

Dear Valued Customer:

Considering the significant safety risk associated with night driving resulting from our employees having to return to the facility at night, only to unload heavy, often awkward equipment in artificially lighted conditions, it has become necessary to review our equipment unloading practices.

Effective June 15th, we will discontinue the normal practice of offloading equipment between the hours of 8:00 pm and 7:00 am. Circulation Tools will continue to make every attempt to accommodate its customers and this procedural change will not affect the loading of jobs called in during evening hours. However, customers are encouraged to consider loading jobs the afternoon before the equipment is required; knowing that the rental start date will automatically be adjusted to begin the morning after the load out.

Your cooperation in assisting us in mitigating the risk associated with night time operations is most appreciated and we thank you in advance for your continued patronage.

Sincerely,

Kirk Pepper
Vice President-General Manager
